THE LILLIAN RADLO RESIDENT ARTIST PROGRAM

Newton North High School • Newton South High School
100 Walnut Street, Newton MA 02460

About the Program

The Lillian Radlo Resident Artist Program is designed to help foster opportunities in the Arts for Newton's high school students that go above and beyond the scope of the traditional school Arts curriculum. Additionally, the program seeks to build relationships within the community and the schools through Arts initiatives.

The program can support total initiatives up to $7500 per year. Initiatives may range from providing a master class / lecture to long-range projects throughout a school semester. Ideas or program initiatives must be centered on student involvement and engagement.

Example initiatives [not limited to:]

- Master Classes / Clinics / Lectures in the Arts
- Concerts that engage student learning and participation
- Visual art installations / exhibits
- Theatre workshops / plays
- Musical composition / writing opportunities in the Arts

About the Donor

Lillian was truly a renaissance woman - involved, caring, thoughtful, and sensitive to people and events. Active in politics, a member of the Newton Democratic City Committee, delegate to the State Nominating Committee, co-chair of the Newton Events Committee of Barney Frank's Congressional Campaign, Lillian truly believed in the political process.

As Assistant to the Superintendent of the Newton Public Schools, 1972-1983, Lillian was involved in virtually every aspect of the development, review, and implementation of the programs, policies, plans, and budgets for the Newton Public Schools. In this role, she taught by example. She felt education was Newton's most important product and she fought long and hard for public education everywhere. In addition to her work and political life, she always found the time to be a caring parent, grandparent, friend, and mentor.
