

Misha Grandel Bio

Misha Grandel is an active performer both locally and internationally. He began his trumpet studies in Moscow, Russia where he was born. After graduating the Central Music School by the name of Tchaikovsky, he continued his studies at The Rubin Academy in Jerusalem, Israel where he moved as a teenager. In 1991 Misha joined the Israeli Defense Orchestra and served there for three years. In 1997 he earned his MA in performance from the Amsterdam conservatory in the Netherlands. Since moving to Boston in 1999, Misha performs regularly with various chamber and orchestral groups, as well as a soloist. Misha is a music director at the Foxborough Regional Charter school as well as a brass instruments instructor at the Newton and Needham public schools